

I am strongly encouraging you to NOT weaken Indiana's "do not call" laws. It is NOT necessary for banks or credit card institutions to contact me, I will contact them if I am in need of some new service. I I value my time at home and do not wish to constantly be harrassed by people wanting to sell me something. It has been so nice to be able to be at home with my family and eat dinner without the daily interruptions that I had before the "do not call" list. My home is my private domain and I do not want them intruding on this domain just because they want to sell some product or service. Please uphold our current law for the benefit of all those who live in Indiana and have benefited from this law. Sincerely Janis L. Pepper
